Dear parents/guardians,

There are no words to describe today's horrific tragedy in Uvalde, TX. This occurrence hits home to our entire school community and every parent who sends their child to school each day. We expect our kids to be safe, and we rely on the safety protocols that are in place to ensure that kids are in the safest possible environment.

Please know that we will continue to provide the safeguards that are in place. Our district is fortunate to have a School Resource Officer and Class III officers in our schools. We will also increase the police presence around our schools this week.

Tomorrow and over the next few days, some students may express concern, sorrow, anger, or other grief. You may also feel the same. Below are some resources that may support you.

Please remember that our guidance counselors are there to assist students and you. I know you join me in expressing our condolences to the families, children, and colleagues in education on their loss and the trauma they have experienced.
